Kenny Shepherd essentially painted the entire white areas of the gym walls on his own and definitely deserves a shout out. It looks the best it has in the "Singer Dome" for a long time. Come take a look! Jeremy Tayson

I would like to give a shout out to Ms. Alexander for her support in being encouraging and flexible to the new staff at Alverno over the last couple of months. She works to strengthen our team a little more every week. Mrs. Ramos-Hurtado

Positive Things to Say to Kids

I enjoy your company.
It's fun to do things with you.
I'm happy to talk with you.
I'm ready to listen.
I'm listening.
I'm proud of you.

Work Life Balance Contacting Employees While Off Duty

Below is a copy of an e-mail that was sent to all staff on December 21, 2017

As previously mentioned we have been working on a policy to address work life balance, specifically regarding communicating with employees while they are off duty.

Due to the 24/7 nature of the Center and the many different schedules worked by employees it is not always possible to communicate with other employees only during an employee's regular work time.

We all know how important it is to take care of ourselves while we are off duty and we have developed a policy to clarify boundaries and expectations regarding communicating with staff, especially while off duty.

Please take a few minutes to familiarize yourself with the policy and contact Lori Hines or your supervisor with any questions. The policy has been added to our policy and procedure manual located on the G drive.

Happy New Year!
